Shaddock National Holdings Enters Washington State with New Division of Capital Title

September 17, 2020 – Dallas-based Shaddock National Holdings has expanded its national title services by growing the Capital Title brand into the State of Washington. Shaddock National Holdings already operates Capital Title of Texas, the largest independent title company in the United States, among several other title companies across the U.S. This will be the first expansion of the Capital Title brand, Capital Title of Washington, and will be led by industry veteran, Eric Bloomquist, as Division President.

Eric is a third-generation Seattleite with 25+ years' of experience in title, brokerage and proptech. He has been a founding member of several successful, forward-looking real estate companies. Whether as an investor, broker, or title professional, his focus has been on simplifying the real estate transaction and reducing the cost, time, and stress involved.

“Capital Title will enter the market in unprecedented times, but with a model that’s engineered to support remote work, including touch-free earnest money deposits, Alanna virtual closing assistant, eChecks and remote online signings. We’re putting an emphasis on employee satisfaction. We know if we provide the escrow officer the support he or she needs, from a tech perspective, but also control over their time, they will take care of the customer. It’s that simple,” said Eric Bloomquist.

“We are thrilled to enter the Pacific Northwest with Eric Bloomquist. It’s rare that you find such an outstanding cultural and operational leader. The team that Eric has assembled along with the technology offerings we are bringing to market will set a new bar for excellence in the region,” adds Mike Rubin, president of Shaddock National Holdings.

“I am so excited to expand the Capital Title brand into another market and Mike has done a phenomenal job in finding Eric and his team to do just that in the State of Washington. They have already hit the ground running and made an impact there. I am confident that they will continue to so into 2021 and after,” added Shaddock National Holdings founder, Bill Shaddock.

The Seattle office has been successfully opened and additional team members are being hired to take care of the unprecedented demand. The new office will be located at 13028 Interurban Avenue S, Suite 108, Seattle, WA 98168. More information on Capital Title of Washington can be found at www.capitaltitlewa.com.
